

Todd Hitchcock

Todd is an experienced businessman, successful family man, accomplished pilot of 38 years, and an Idaho resident of 48 years. In 1988, Todd graduated from Washington State University with a BA in Business, then later received Undergraduate Pilot Training from the military in 1997, completing top of his class.

Currently, Todd and his wife are the owners of Spur Aviation Services, LLC in Twin Falls, Idaho. Their company provides Air Attack aircraft for First Response missions to the Government for wild land firefighting throughout the United States. In addition to this, Todd has been working in aircraft sales since 2002 with his business Hitchcock Aviation.

Todd is known for his involvement in Idaho Aviation as a backcountry pilot, an aircraft and aircraft parts salesman, on-demand charter work, his 20 years flying as a cargo pilot, and his 24 year fighter pilot career with the Idaho Air Guard flying in F-4s and A-10s.

While Todd is not flying, he enjoys being in the Idaho outdoors, spending time with his family, and continually looks eagerly towards the next adventure.
